DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-8, drawn to a process/method of using a microorganism.

Group II, claim(s) 9, drawn to a microorganism, Gluconobacter sp DSM 12884.

Please note, claim 10 has not been grouped, because the claimed recitation of a use, without setting forth any active steps involved in the process, results in an improper definition of a process (i.e., results in a claim which is not a proper process claim under 35 U.S.C. 101). A "use" claim per se is not a recognized class of invention (i.e. method/process of making, method/process of using, composition of matter, or apparatus). See for example Ex parte Dunki, 153 USPQ 678 (Bd.App. 1967) and Clinical Products, Ltd. v. Brenner, 255 F. Supp. 131, 149 USPQ 475 (D.D.C. 1966). Applicant is required to cancel the claim or to appropriately amend the claim and identify the group (group I, II, or a separate group) to which the amended claim should be drawn.

Art Unit: 1651

The inventions listed as Groups I and II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

The common technical feature is the taxonomic genus of Gluconobacter. This is not a special technical feature, because the common feature of the taxonomic genus of Gluconobacter is taught by MOONMANGMEE (NPL-3: IDS 5/26/2006) and thus cannot be a special technical feature. Additionally, claim 1 does not require the selection of Gluconobacter, thus to the extent that Acetobacter may be selected, there is no special technical feature among the invention groups. According to PCT Rule 13.2, unity of invention exists only when there is a shared, same, or corresponding special technical feature among the claimed inventions.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.
